

Make some notes on what changes might be needed.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are approximately 20 lines visible. The paper has a slight shadow on the right side, suggesting it's resting on a surface.

When you set up accounts, especially retirement and life insurance, you often need to assign a beneficiary. But the thing about life is that your beneficiaries may change over time due to marriage, divorce, birth, death, or just a change in your preferences. There's little or no margin for error if your beneficiaries are incorrectly listed and something happens to you, so make sure to review them at least once a year. Why not now?
